

Energy Procurement

Operating in a deregulated energy market affords many benefits. TDC gives you the ability to choose who you buy your power from and how it is generated, allowing flexibility in developing an energy strategy that works best for your business.

TDC offers services that can help you:

- Involve multiple suppliers to compete for your energy business
- Seamlessly transition from your current supplier to new providers
- Realize cost savings through highly competitive pricing and terms
- Gain protection from rising costs
- Manage contracts, transaction data and complex regulatory requirements

Our Process

1

When you provide us with your most recent utility statement and a letter of authorization, we will review your current rates and historical usage. This information helps us determine the most cost effective way for you to purchase energy and manage your current power consumption.

2

After analyzing the historical information, we begin negotiating favorable rates, in deregulated markets, with multiple energy suppliers. This allows us to recommend rate and term options that will be the most effective for your business.

3

Once the rate and term options have been reviewed, we meet with you to discuss the best options. A comparison of current cost vs. future cost will be presented in order for you to make an informed decision. Finally, a structured agreement will be proposed and you will begin saving.
